

Maureen Parkinson, M.Ed., CCRC
Provincial Vocational Rehabilitation Counsellor
BC Cancer
Vancouver, British Columbia

Maureen Parkinson has worked for 30 years as the provincial vocational rehabilitation counsellor at BC Cancer. She is the co-lead and content lead for www.cancerandwork.ca, a website designed to inform cancer survivors, employers, and health care providers on how to help cancer survivors with staying with, returning to, and finding work. Maureen is a sessional instructor for Pacific Coast University's Cancer and Worker Support course as part of the Return-to-Work Coordinator Program. She has co-authored a commission paper for the Canadian Association of Psychosocial Oncology called "Cancer and Work: A Canadian Perspective," and she wrote Cancer and Work: A Practical Guide for Cancer Patients. Maureen has a master's degree in counselling psychology, is a Canadian Certified Rehabilitation Counsellor, and completed the Certified Return to Work Coordinator Program through the National Institute for Disability Management and Research.
